Presented by International Association of Wildland Fire

In partnership with the Wildland Fire Leadership Council (WFLC)

and the Western, Southeast and Northeast Regional Strategy Committees.

AT THE WORKSHOP WE WILL:

- Provide a clear understanding of the importance and critical role of science in all Cohesive Strategy planning and implementation.
- Reinforce that the focus of the Cohesive Strategy implementation is "all hands, all lands" and that seamless access to the best available and correct science is vital to success at every level and every action.
- Identify examples and opportunities where implementation is informed by the "right" science and information.
- Identify processes to ensure science integration in all planning and implementation activities and identify future research needs in support of Cohesive Strategy implementation.
- Develop recommendations for continuing actions on this subject.

Registration Rate - $125/person
Hotel Room Rate - $89/person

The Call for Presentations will open on November 15, 2016
